

Bloomberg Law Interviews Chambliss on the Latest With HHS Provider Relief Funds

Bloomberg Law published "Providers Want More Time to Report, Spend Pandemic Relief Funds," highlighting COVID-19 relief funding and the many regulatory changes that have occurred. This article goes into detail on how many medical groups and health attorneys are advocating for the government to give more time and clarity on the "gray areas" as HHS provider relief fund reporting deadlines quickly approach. Jed Roebuck shared insight on the lengthy reporting process requirements and the challenges health care providers have endured throughout the many rounds of guidance announced by HHS. Jed and the Chambliss Health Care team are distributing timely alerts as guidance is issued. For a look at the most recent updates, please visit the health care section of our COVID-19 Insight Center.

Jed is a shareholder in the Health Care and Business groups at Chambliss with extensive experience in transactional and commercial matters, as well as health care compliance, professional services arrangements, professional employment and equity arrangements, and state licensing and certification issues. Jed believes client loyalty is extremely important and values both relationships and high quality results in his work. For more details on his practice and experience, please visit Jed's bio.