

Chambliss Welcomes New Paralegals to Their Expanding Legal Teams

Chambliss, Bahner & Stophel, P.C. welcomes two new paralegals, Chasity Jackson and Sage Sammeli, who will support the firm's estate planning and business practice areas...

Chambliss, Bahner & Stophel, P.C. welcomes two new paralegals, Chasity Jackson and Sage Sammeli, who will support the firm's estate planning and business practice areas.

"We are excited to have Chasity and Sage on our team," said President and Managing Shareholder Mark Cunningham. "As we continue to grow and welcome skilled new talent, we take great pride in the invaluable support our paralegals provide to both our clients and the firm. Their experience and dedication, combined with fresh perspectives, ensure that we deliver exceptional service. Our paralegals work seamlessly with our attorneys, consistently striving to exceed expectations and enhance the overall client experience."

With over 15 years of legal experience, Chasity specializes in probate, trust, and estate administration. She helps clients protect their assets with tailored plans, guiding them through the process, including gathering and valuing possessions, preparing legal documents, notifying creditors and beneficiaries of their rights, outstanding debts, and responsibilities, managing debts and taxes, ensuring compliance, and facilitating asset distribution. Chasity is dedicated to making clients feel valued and well-informed throughout estate planning. She earned her associate degree from Snead State Community College and her bachelor's degree from Faulkner University.

Sage specializes in the formation, governance, conversion, and dissolution of for-profit entities. Working with multiple industries, she drafts formation and maintenance documents, filings, and closing documents, while performing thorough due diligence. Sage routinely handles filing annual reports, amendments, and terminations with the Secretary of State. She also regularly drafts operating agreements and coordinates with the IRS and state Departments of Revenue for tax information. Sage earned her bachelor's degree from Lee University before obtaining her transactional paralegal certification from Chattanooga State Community College.

Sage participated in Chattanooga State's paralegal apprenticeship program in partnership with Chambliss, which launched in late 2022. As Tennessee's first college-sponsored registered legal apprenticeship, the program provides participants with full-time employment, benefits, tuition assistance, and on-the-job training. Apprentices gain valuable experience working directly with attorneys, legal assistants, and clients, while earning portable, nationally recognized credentials through Chattanooga State.

Read the full Hamilton County Herald article, "Chambliss welcomes paralegals Jackson, Sammel."