Kirby Yost will co-present at the ICSC+U.S. LAW Conference on Friday, October 25, 2024. Her presentation, “Common Area Controls: Welcome to Mr. Rogers’ Neighborhood,” will explore current trends with common area controls in retail and mixed-used complexes. Kirby will also discuss the implications of outdated restrictions, landlords’ rights and risks to convert common areas to other uses, and the ramifications of use that disproportionately impact certain tenants.

The conference will be held October 23-25, 2024, in Orlando, Florida, and is open to members and nonmembers. For more information or to register, visit the conference event page.

Kirby Yost is a shareholder and chair of Chambliss’ real estate section. She counsels developers and businesses on a wide variety of matters, focusing her practice predominantly on real estate development, including acquisition and disposition, retail and office leasing, land use, zoning, and other property issues. Kirby has led clients through development deals, ranging from small purchases or sales to multimillion-dollar transactions. She represents both landlords and tenants in lease drafting and negotiations, but her clients are most commonly developers of retail, industrial, or mixed-use properties. She has also worked with a metropolitan airport for years on property and other business matters, which provides an interesting variety from typical retail developments.
