

Laura McKinney and Courtney Keehan to Present at 2025 TBA Business Law Forum

Laura McKinney and Courtney Keehan will present at the Tennessee Bar Association (TBA) 2025 Business Law Forum in Nashville on April 24, 2025. Their presentation, “Practical Tips for Contract Drafting,” will provide practical advice for drafting effective contracts, sources for precedent documents, strategies when reviewing drafts, and maintaining consistency for complex legal documents. This event is open to TBA members and non-members, and will be submitted for CLE credit.

For more information or to register for the TBA Business Law Forum, visit the TBA registration page.

Laura McKinney is a shareholder at Chambliss and chair of the firm’s business section. With over a decade of experience in multiple jurisdictions, Laura helps navigate the diverse business and legal obstacles that local, national, and global companies encounter. She frequently counsels clients in several industries, such as manufacturing, energy, food and beverage, logistics, chemical, and mining, on various matters, including asset and stock purchase transactions, preparation and negotiation of commercial contracts, entity formation, corporate governance, cross-border distribution, and regulatory issues. For information on her practice and experience, visit Laura’s bio.

Courtney is an associate at Chambliss and advises on business matters related to mergers and acquisitions, environmental compliance, health care, and general business operations. She works with clients in a wide variety of industries and is genuinely interested in their success. Courtney has developed great relationships through her personal approach and consistently offers high-quality results. For more details on her practice and experience, please visit Courtney’s bio.