

Logan Threadgill to Present Construction Case Law Update at the 2021 AGC Tennessee Annual Convention

Logan Threadgill will co-present at the Associated of General Contractors \(AGC\) of Tennessee Annual Member Convention with the AGC of Tennessee Legislative Committee. In their presentation “2020/2021 Legislative Update,” they will cover specifics on recent cases in Tennessee involving construction disputes, along with the implications of those rulings and how they will affect the construction industry.

The conference is scheduled for October 6-9, 2021, at the Hilton Sandestin Resort in Miramar Beach, Florida. For more information on the conference, please visit the AGC Tennessee website.

Logan is a business litigation attorney. He represents clients in a broad spectrum of commercial matters, and has extensive experience working on construction cases, contract and payment disputes, complex product liability lawsuits, as well as Chapter 7, Chapter 11, and Chapter 13 bankruptcy proceedings. Logan enjoys creatively resolving legal issues for clients in the most efficient and effective manner, so that they can focus more time and energy on running their business. In addition to being a member of the AGC of East Tennessee, he is involved with the Tennessee Association of Construction Counsel (TACC). And he is a board member for the Young Lawyers Divisions of the Chattanooga Bar Association and the Tennessee Bar Association.
