EDGE Magazine recently published an article highlighting Paige Baker and her impactful role as marketing manager at Chambliss. The article, “Baker Helping Write Chambliss Law Firm’s Success Story,” explores her path from a communications major to a key player in the firm’s branding, events, and outreach initiatives. It details Paige’s strong work ethic, deep Chattanooga roots, and leadership in shaping Chambliss’ success.

Here’s a snapshot from the article:

When 28-year-old Paige Baker was younger, aptitude tests pointed her toward a possible career in law.

She ultimately decided to not go to law school, but fate pushed her into an adjacent career anyway.

While studying at the University of Tennessee at Knoxville she majored in communications and is now the marketing manager for Chambliss, one of Chattanooga’s leading law firms ...

At Chambliss, Baker quickly rose in the ranks and now has three direct reports. Her group manages the firm’s website, handles branding tasks, stages events, coordinates sponsorships, and tackles an assortment of writing tasks. Then there’s a catch-all she laughingly calls, “other duties as assigned,” which can mean pitching in on virtually anything the firm needs.
