I am passionate about guiding my clients through the crucial decisions that shape their legacy, ensuring their values and wishes are honored for generations to come.

Colin Wolfe is an estate planning attorney dedicated to helping clients protect their legacies and secure their financial futures. Specializing in wills, trusts, and asset protection, Colin assists a diverse array of clients with personalized estate planning solutions — ranging from basic planning to complex estate and trust administration. Colin meticulously crafts innovative strategies that encompass everything from simple wills and end-of-life planning to intricate, multigenerational approaches, to personalize each client's unique needs. By proactively anticipating shifts in the legal landscape, he works to ensure that estate planning documents are regularly updated to remain effective over time. As a recent law school graduate, Colin brings fresh perspectives and dynamic energy to the firm, demonstrating a strong commitment to helping families navigate the complexities of estate planning with confidence.

Colin's service in the Air Force instilled a strong sense of discipline, precision, and commitment to service — qualities that now shape his approach to his legal practice. The strategic thinking and careful planning he fostered in the military seamlessly inform his approach to developing customized estate plans, designed to safeguard clients' assets and preserve their legacies with the highest level of care and commitment. Colin's transparent communication style, compassionate guidance, and commitment to excellence ensure his client-centered strategies empower each family to achieve their goals while instilling certainty and security in their wealth transfer plans.
