The work that I do helps take the mystery out of estate and trust administrations, which can seem overwhelming and confusing to family and friends after a loved one passes away.

With over a decade of experience in estate and trust administration, Katherine Farmer has an intimate knowledge of probate and the administrative processes surrounding trusts and estates. She understands that these processes can seem both confusing and overwhelming to clients, no matter the state. She has experience working with clients in Tennessee, Alabama, and Georgia and is devoted to assisting them in understanding the administration process as well as reducing the stress involved with meeting various administrative requirements. Chambliss' clients know that she is always available and committed to swiftly and efficiently handling their requests so the estate or trust administration can be closed as quickly and smoothly as possible.
