I love working with clients to resolve potentially regrettable situations in the most cost-efficient way possible for all parties involved.

Having served Chambliss clients for over 20 years, Tommy Grant knows what it takes to get litigation matters across the finish line. He assists with general, civil, and construction litigation in Tennessee and Georgia. Serving clients in the manufacturing and construction industries, he regularly works with attorneys on product liability cases, construction matters, contract and civil disputes, class actions, and enforcing judgments. Tommy's level of availability and quick response times have been key to his client relationships. No matter the case, clients can depend on Tommy to provide the information they need.

Sidebar

It's easy to see Tommy's competitive nature and drive both inside and outside the office. When he's not winning for the clients, you'll likely find him competing for the gold at the firm's cornhole or ping pong tournaments. He also has a great golf game and spends his free time coaching his daughter's soccer team.
