Chambliss has a compassionate elder law team who understands the challenges of our clients and assists with planning related to chronic illness, dementia, disability, and other circumstances. With a diverse set of skills and personal experience, we help clients and their families uncover all their options. Our elder law team consists of a Tennessee licensed Advanced Practice Social Worker, dedicated attorneys, resident CPAs, and one of only a handful of Certified Elder Law Attorneys (CELA) in the Southeast. Additionally, our attorneys are members of the National Academy of Elder Law Attorneys and Elder Law Answers. We take a holistic approach and provide a wide range of services including, but not limited to, assisted living referrals, tax compliance, benefits planning, elder abuse cases, crisis intervention, Alzheimer's and dementia consultations, and hospice support. We start by listening to our clients' goals and later deliver an action plan based on their financial, life insurance, health care, and long-term care needs. We are here to answer any questions about elder care management and make the process as stress-free as possible.

Our team works together to protect our clients' quality of life, independence, and peace of mind. Our team is passionate about serving the aging community and has dedicated significant time to create a network of resources for our clients. We have strong relationships with state agencies, such as the local offices for Social Security Administration and Veterans Affairs, and are connected to nonprofits, foundations, and social service agencies.

In 2017, we created the Embrace Aging Forum to address the changing needs of today's older Americans. Now in its fourth year, our Embrace Aging Forum connects elders and caregivers to community resources and progressive perspectives on all areas of life, including housing and care, relationships, health and wellness, finances, and legal planning. Keynote speakers such as Ashton Applewhite, Dianne Gray, Marc Freedman, and Tembi Locke have been featured at Embrace Aging.
