Each member of the Chambliss health care practice is personally committed to meeting and exceeding the expectations of physicians, practice management companies, and provider groups. We adopt our health care clients' goals as our own and put their business interests first when counseling on day-to-day business decisions related to professional service and management arrangements, shareholder negotiations, state licensure, insurance disputes, certificate of need statutes, compliance and regulatory audits, and other matters. We also represent and defend doctors, nurses, and other practitioners in litigation and alternative dispute resolution. Some clients have worked with us for over 30 years and have trusted our team through numerous reorganizations, acquisitions, dispositions, and joint ventures of all sizes. Over the years, we've developed a successful track record of counseling numerous types of medical professionals and practices, including anesthesiology, radiology, cardiology, oncology, pathology, and dentistry.
